Professor of Mechanical Engineering

Education Director, Blum Center for Developing Economies

Chair, Development Engineering Graduate Group

“

I have the audacity to believe that peoples everywhere can have three meals a day for their bodies, education and culture for their minds, and dignity, equality, and freedom for their spirits. ”

Martin Luther King, Jr.

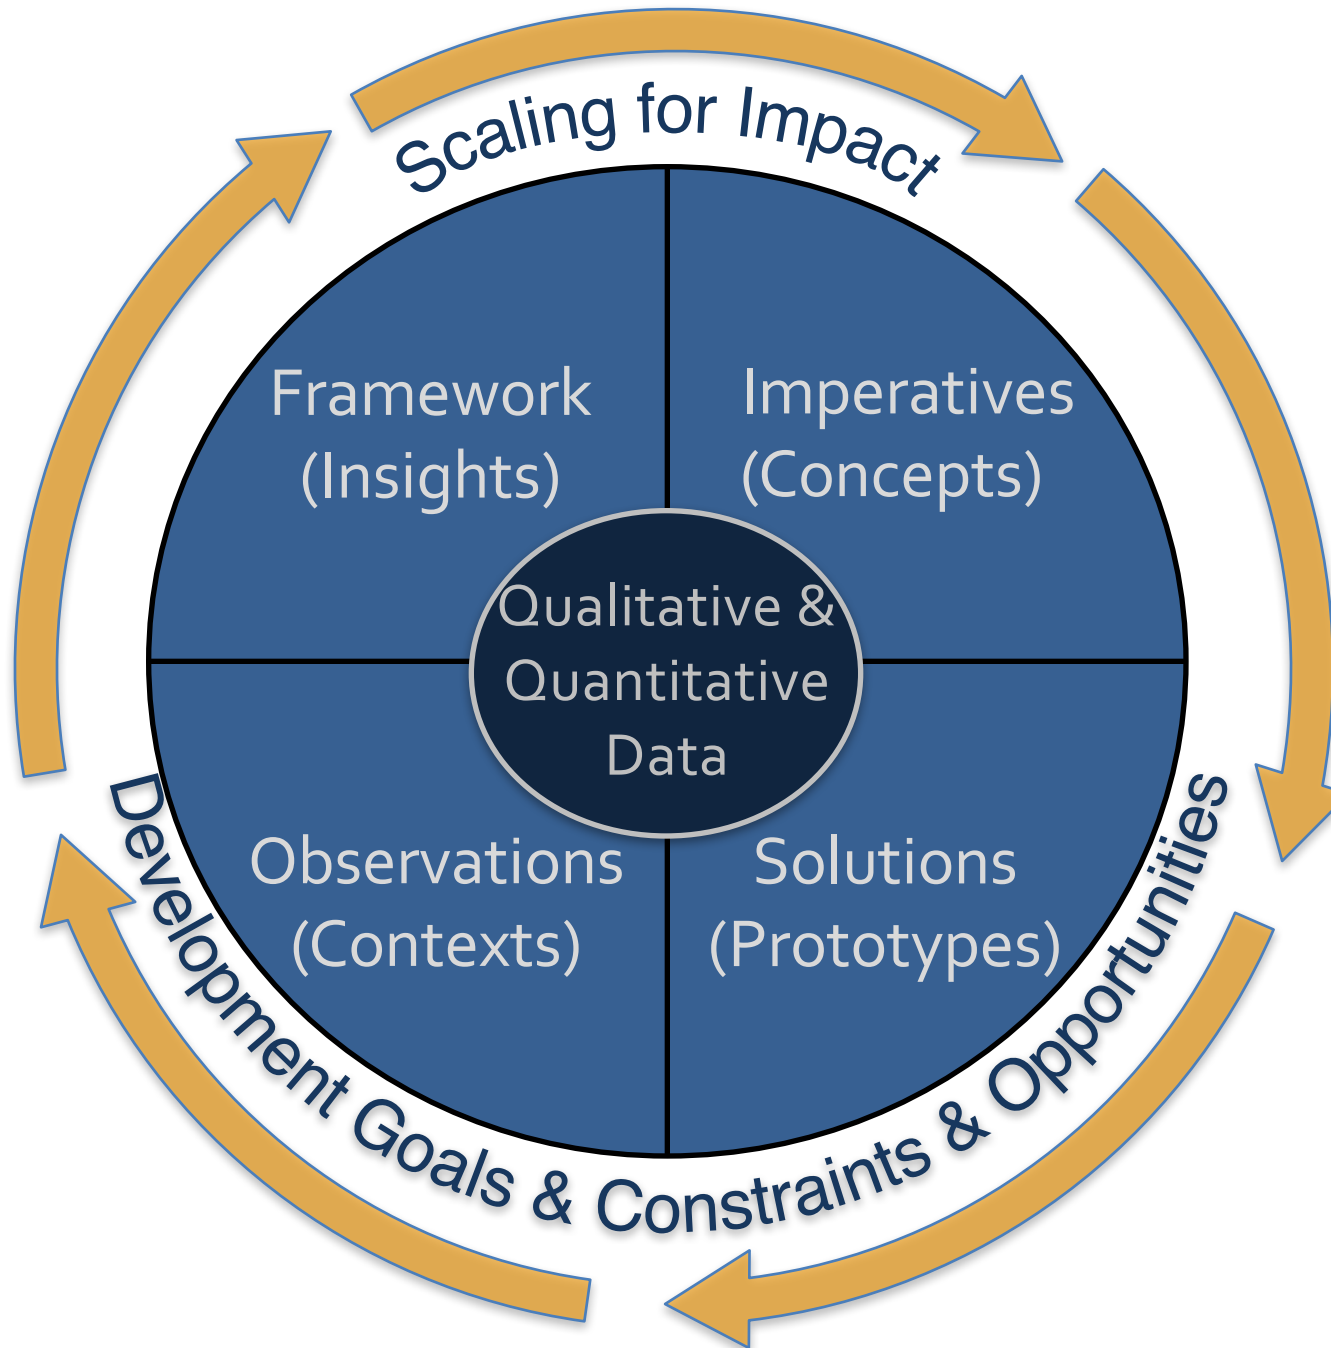

Nobel Peace Prize acceptance speech • Oslo, Norway, 1964

A photograph of a family in a rural kitchen. A man in a purple and green striped shirt and a yellow dhoti stands in the background. A woman in an orange and white striped sari sits in the foreground, looking at the camera. A young boy in a red shirt and purple pants sits on the floor to the right, eating. The kitchen has a brick wall, a built-in stove, and various cooking items like pots and a basket hanging on the wall.

Development Engineering:

Designing products & services that improve poor people's lives
at scale

Design for Social Impact

BLUM CENTER METHODOLOGY

Train
a new generation
of global innovators

Transform ideas
into inventions and action

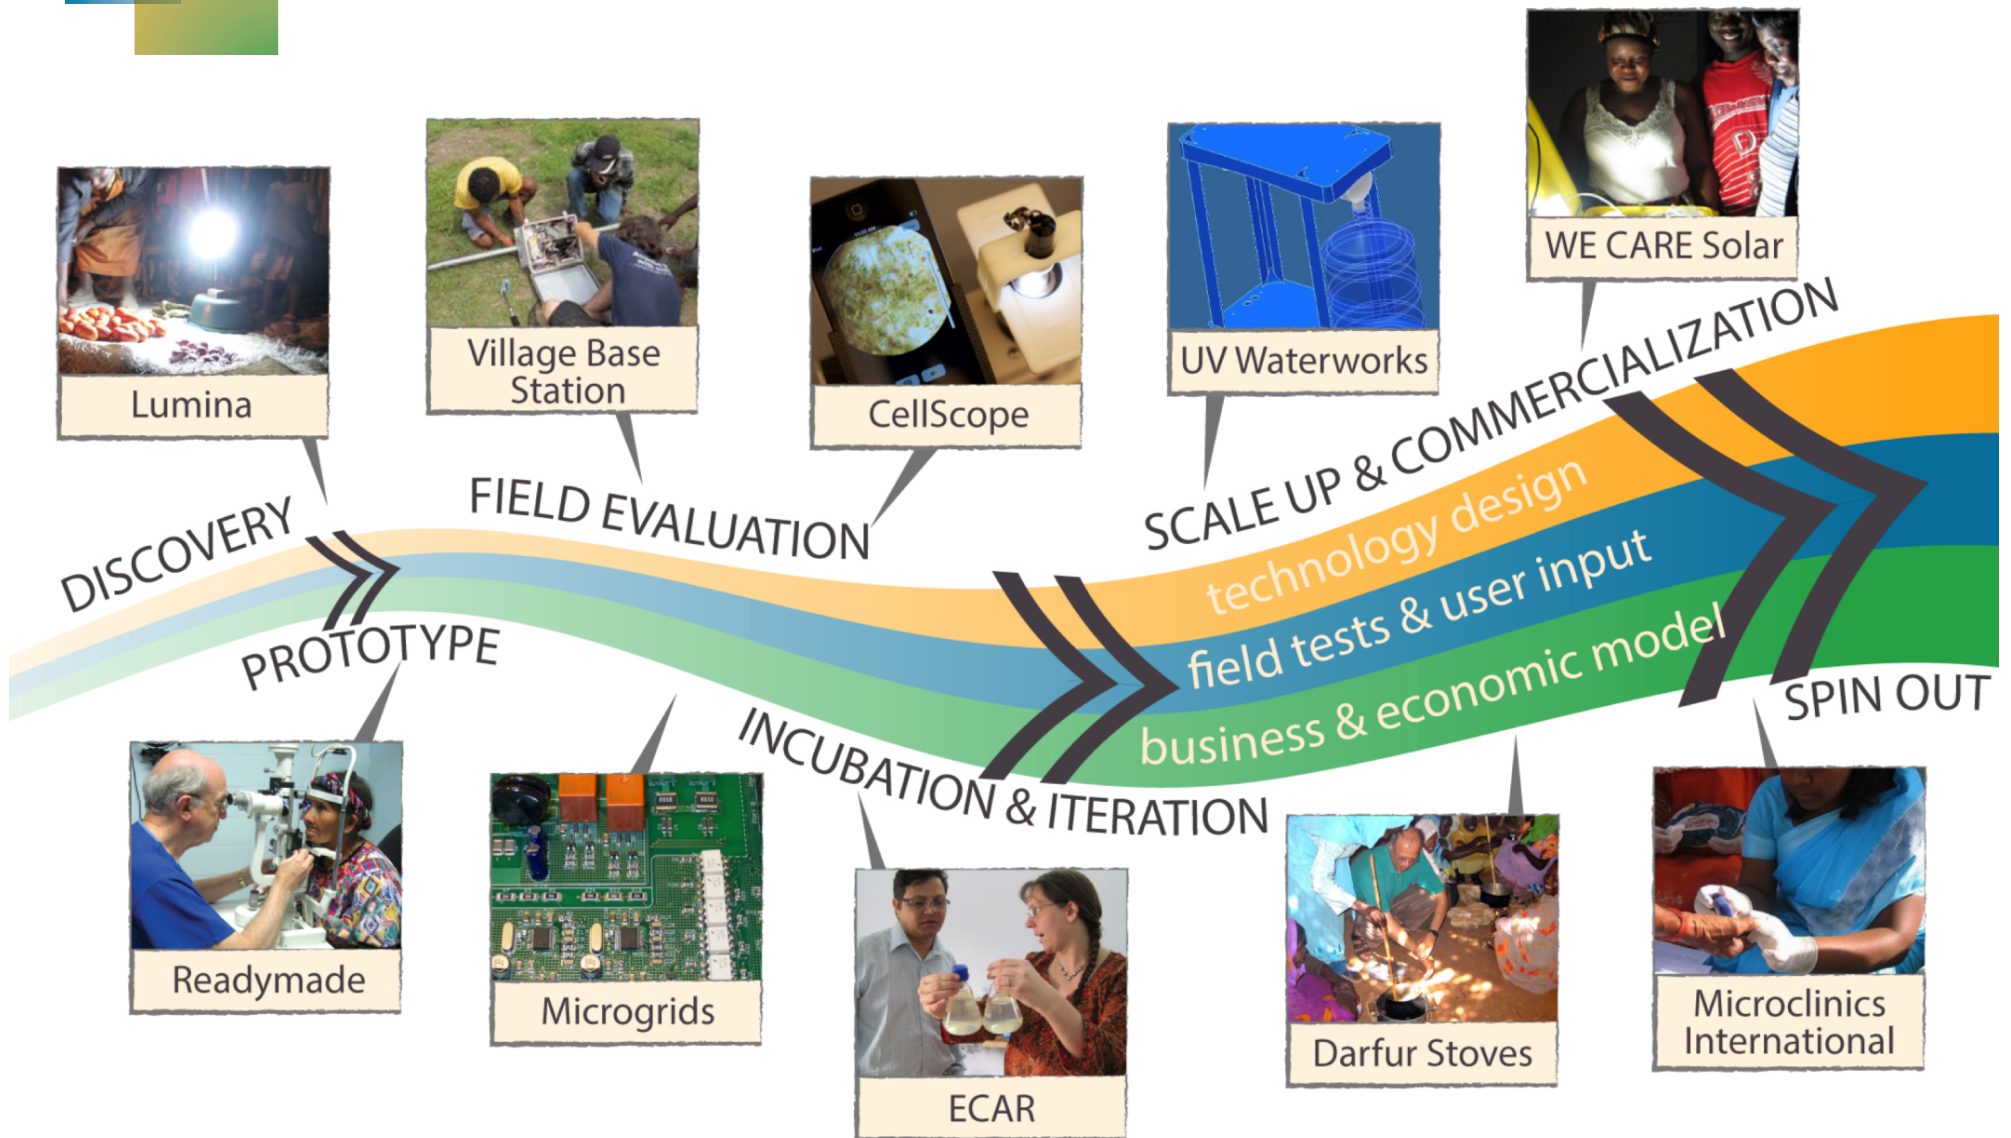

Drive
discovery & innovation

APPROACH

THE INNOVATION PIPELINE

REVERSE INNOVATION

Create high-performance, high-value products and services that appeal to consumers in poor and rich countries alike.

Sensors & Smartphones
